INTRODUCTION.

'To sing the gallant souls of heroes sent to Hades,' says Mr. Addison with a smile, 'Would you celebrate them all'?

When at the instance of the Indian Historical Records Commission the local Government asked me to revise the supplementary list of Christian tombs for the Patna division, my first impression was, on seeing these lists of inscriptions from the tombs of hundreds of persons, mostly obscure, and with no claim to special interest on the ground of being pioneers, with their pious ejaculations and quotations, and their doggerel verse, that the better course would be to change the nature of the book, making as its basis an index to the burial registers, with a note where a tomb might be surviving. The proposal was discussed and approved at the twelfth meeting of the Commission, at Gwalior in December of 1929. But I found, when I proceeded to examine the registers, that the proposal was impracticable; and subsequently, with the approval of the local Government, I have returned to the original scheme of publishing all the inscriptions, taking some latitude in the matter of omitting the pious quotations and the doggerel verse, since the publication must be kept within reasonable bounds. I have searched in vain for any verses of merit; we find nothing here like "Ah what avails the sceptred race! Ah what the form divine!". The verses which are not quoted from Dr. Watts, bear the stamp of the undertaker, who probably supplied them with the tombstone, not worth perpetuating.

(2) Mufassal burials after 1772 ought to have been recorded in the registers of St. John's Church in Calcutta; but for long after 1772 no permanent record was made. The earliest records which are to be found in St. John's Church from this district are the registers of Henry Martyn, who was chaplain at Dinapore in 1806. But Henry Martyn was also chaplain of Cawnpore, and had to travel between the stations; his record for Dinapore was evidently kept most conscientiously, but there are great gaps in it, since it was apparently not preserved while Martyn was travelling. After Martyn left, there was ordinarily a chaplain stationed at Dinapore. The chaplains recorded their own burials; occasionally we find a chaplain who records all: but often the register indicates very obviously that it was written up long after the event; and as a rule the chaplains omitted Roman Catholic burials which in the army of that day, recruited so largely from Ireland, were numerous. For Patna there is a register dating from 1818; but this also is most imperfect, with great gaps, when there happened to be no chaplain at Patna, or when the chaplain was absent on the north of the river; so that of the fifty-five old tombs in the Sabzibagh cemetery, only thirty-seven have entries in the register.

(3) The Dinapore registers, imperfect though they are, tell a melancholy story of mortality among British troops in the early years of the nineteenth century. In the two years 1817 and 1818 the 24th Foot, (the South Wales Borderers), lost one commissioned officer, six non-commissioned officers, ninety-six privates, and sixty wives and children. In 1819 the Company's European Battalion lost their bandmaster, two non-commissioned officers and 51 privates by the 20th of June, when the register stops. In the following year they lost one officer, three non-commissioned officers and 66 men. In 1821 the 59th Foot lost their commanding officer, seven non-commissioned officers, and 53 men. In 1824, in the first five months of the year, while they were at Dinapore the Company's European Battalion lost six non-commissioned officers and 44 men. The same story continues throughout the period with which we are here dealing. In the hot weather of 1847 the 80th Regiment suffered terribly. The records are incomplete; each company put down a memorial slab, lying flat on the ground and so liable to perish: of one company which apparently suffered least, the names survive by some curious accident, while of the rest the names are lost. The slab of the 7th company is indecipherable, though it appears that it contained about thirty names. On the other slabs the inscriptions are now completely obliterated. If the price paid in British lives for the acquisition of British India is to be calculated merely from lives lost on the field of action, the amount will be found to be surprisingly small; but the matter takes a different aspect if the losses in cantonments are also to be taken into consideration.

(4) When Bishop Heber visited Patna in 1824, he remarked that the Europeans stationed there preferred to bury their deceased friends and relatives in the gardens surrounding their bungalows rather than in the cemetery, so that in most of their gardens there were to be found funeral urns or obelisks. He was the guest of Sir Charles D'Oyly, in the house now occupied by the Civil Surgeon of Patna, in whose compound the little monument to Flora Macnabb stood under the tamarind tree; and he probably saw also the tombs in Chhajjubah, and in the compound of the house now occupied by the Collector. His statement was too general; but the earliest graveyards are necessarily to be found in the Factory compounds, since there was no cemetery before 1765.

(5) The old burying-ground at Bankipore.—Only one tomb, bearing the date 1761, survives in the Factory Compound at Gulzarbagh. The Factory Chief had a garden at Bankipore, which was originally confined within the limits of what was in recent times the compound of the Opium Agent's house. The earliest burying-ground of the Company's servants of which we know was in the waste ground lying to the west of this compound (Company Bagh), which is now included in the compound of the convent. Several ancient tombs survive in this burying-ground, but only one of them retains a decipherable inscription. The Gazetteer of Patna district describes how the boundaries of Company Bagh were extended to the west and south. The troops of Coote and Clive camped on the land to the west of the original compound; then the Commander-in-Chief and his staff occupied the area immediately adjoining the compound of the Factory Chief, and the troops moved farther west, and over to Sabzibagh, until Company Bagh extended to the nala by the Bankipore Club, and included part of Sabzibagh. When in 1764 a Commander-in-Chief who was an exceptionally gallant soldier had to leave his army and come to Bankipore to die, he was buried, not in the ordinary burying-ground, but near the house which was then being built for him, which was evidently thought to be the more proper place, where his tomb still survives.

(6) The Patna City Cemetery.—In 1763, Ellis and many of his companions, who had seized the Fort on the King's Birthday, and who were subsequently ejected and defeated, were massacred at the house of Haji Ahmad in Patna City. In 1765 the compound of Haji Ahmad was converted into the Patna City Cemetery. The monument to the victims of the massacre, with its inaccurate inscription, is modern. A new inscription, based on the researches of Sir Evan Cotton, is being substituted for the inscription of 1880.

(7) Sabzibagh.—I have described above how the encroachments of Company Bagh extended across the Patna-Dinapore road to Sabzibagh. The land was made over formally by the Government of India for a cemetery on May 19th, 1829; and it was duly consecrated by the Bishop of Calcutta on the 30th of August, 1830. No tombs are to be found of a date before the time at which this outlying piece of Company Bagh was dedicated for a cemetery; but I think it probable that it had been used for that purpose in the eighteenth century.

(8) The Cathedral Church of the Blessed Virgin Mary in Patna City.—We need not doubt that many old monuments perished when the English Factory was stormed in the disturbances of 1763. It is probable that more were lost at the same time when the Catholic Church in the city, which had then been in existence for fifty years, was destroyed by the city mob. The church was rebuilt in 1772 in its present imposing form; and its churchyard contains many interesting tombs. In 1917 the Local Government published the surviving old inscriptions, edited by Father H. Hosten, S.J. My list is taken from that publication, omitting for lack of space the Biblical texts, pious ejaculations, or verses, which for a publication of this kind are irrelevant. The biographical notes on the inscriptions merely reproduce the notes of Father Hosten. Translations of the inscriptions which are not in English will be found in the Government publication, or as Sir Evan Cotton reminds me, in Bengal: Past and Present, volume IX, pages 28—39.

(9) The Dinapore Cemeteries.—Captain H. Bullock of the Indian Army, who as historiographer of the Army in India has been attached to the Historical Records Commission, supplied biographical notices on a number of the Dinapore inscriptions. He would have supplied more, if it had not then been thought desirable that the biographical notes should be restricted. The manuscript was then sent to Sir Evan Cotton, who added considerably to the biographies of persons buried in Bankipore and Patna City, and more to those of Dinapore, whereby the biographical notices have been made much more complete, and in many respects more interesting. Sir Evan Cotton desires that acknowledgment should be made of the great assistance given to him in these researches by Major V. C. Hodson, whom he justly describes as the repository of all information regarding the old Bengal Army, without whose assistance he could have furnished no notes on officers of the Bengal Army.

II.—Biographical Notes.

(1) TOMBS IN COMPANY BAGH.

(b) Major Randfurlie Knox.—This is the most interesting of the old tombs of Patna, commemorating the most gallant and heroic of the officers who served under Clive, and one of the most gallant and heroic soldiers that our history has known. In December of 1763 Adams, who had taken his army to the Karamnasa in pursuit of Mir Kasim, was compelled by failing health to resign the chief command to Knox; but Knox himself was suffering from dysentery, and he came in to Patna to die. He had been promoted in rank before he died; but the orders had not reached India, so that he is described on his tomb as Major, although he was actually then a Lieutenant-Colonel. One of his most famous exploits was his march of 300 miles, with 200 European troops, in the intense heat of an Indian April, for the relief of Patna in 1760. After he had put to flight the army of Shah Alam he crossed the river, and engaged with complete success the army of the Nawab of Purnea, against odds which made the attempt appear suicidal. What makes the character of Knox particularly attractive is the light-hearted gaiety with which he undertook desperate adventures, and the love amounting to devotion with which he was regarded by his men, and by all with whom he came in contact. Mr. S. C. Hill has contributed an account of his career to the Journal of the Bihar and Orissa Research Society, to which readers may refer. (Vol. III, pages 99—163.)

(a) 3. John Shum (writer 1803) was Superintendent of Salt Chowkies of Bihar from 1815 to 1821, and again from 1823 to 1828, when he was succeeded by Sir Charles D'Oyly. He was in charge of the office of Collector of Customs at Patna at the time of his death.

(2) TOMBS IN THE PATNA CITY CEMETERY.

A list of the surviving tombs of a date before 1857 of the old Patna City Cemetery was published in September 1924 in Bengal : Past and Present, (Volume XXVIII, serial no. 55), from which, for the greater part, I take the following biographical notes.

(1) The present obelisk to the memory of the victims of the Patna massacre was erected in 1880 in place of the original monument. The inscription is inaccurate and incomplete, as Sir Evan Cotton pointed out in a paper which was read at the Session of the Indian Historical Records Commission which was held at Patna in December 1930; and a more correct list of names will in due course be substituted for the existing inscription.* Campbell and Anderson are two of Archdeacon Firminger's Three Surgeons of Patna. A history of the service of each of the military officers who fell in the massacre will be found in the General Military Register of the Bengal Establishment. (See Proceedings of meetings, Indian Historical Records Commission, Vol. XIII.)

(3) Captain George Kinloch commanded the abortive expedition of 1767, of which the purpose was to assist the Raja of Khatmandu to repel the Gurkha invasion of the Nepal valley. The brother who erected the monument afterwards took service with the Dutch in Patna.

(4) William Majendie was appointed Sheriff of Calcutta in December 1765. He was one of the Civil Servants suspended in 1766 for having signed a petition of protest against the appointment by Clive of "four gentlemen from Madras" to Council at Fort William. "The most active in the affair were Mr. Tho: French, Mr. Geo. Vansittart, and Mr. Majendie." He was subsequently reinstated by order of the Court of Directors. In a letter dated from Plassey on April 2, 1766 Clive writes to Henry Verelst: "If your refusing to give your consent to Majendie to marry Miss Gardiner shall occasion reflection sufficient in the young man to set aside the match, he and his friends will be under obligations to you which they never can repay."

(5) The name of Captain Charles Hay figures prominently in the Patna Revenue Consultations in connexion with the campaign against Fateh Sah in the Saran (Chapra) district.

(6) William Maxwell was appointed Revenue Chief of Behar on the dissolution of the Revenue Council in 1781, a few months before his death. The name (now effaced from the inscription) of his "eldest assistant," who erected the monument to his memory, is James Lindsay Ross, whose own death in 1790 is recorded in the oddly abbreviated inscription on Tomb (11).

(7) Edward Bunny.—The Patna Revenue Council Proceedings of July 27, 1778, contain a "List of British subjects and others not in the service of the English, Dutch, or Danish Companies residing in and about Patna." The following entry relates to Edward Bunny: "Came to India in 1759 on the Clinton in the Company's marine service for Bombay. Came to Bengal, April 1765, as chief mate in a Company's vessel which being sold he remained here. Came to Patna by Lord Clive's permission in June [?1778] as a private merchant. Has since lived with Messrs. Rumbold, Wilkins, Law and Co. as a book-keeper and is now an assistant in the Accounts office under the Revenue Council."

(11) James Lindsay Ross was assistant to the Revenue Council in 1778 and succeeded William Maxwell (6) as Revenue Chief in 1781, filling that office until 1787, when he became Agent to the opium contractors. Ross was Acting Revenue Chief in August and September 1781, at the time of Chait Singh's rebellion. It would appear from the inscription on the tomb of John Lewis in the compound of what is now the Collector's house at Bankipore, that Ross was living in that house in 1780.

(16) Samuel Charters—arrived in Bengal in 1769 and was one of the earliest Collectors of Jessore (1773): Buxey to the Board of Trade, 1775: Member of the Committee of Revenue in 1781, and Judge of Patna in the same year. He was one of the Committee appointed in 1792 to enquire into the conduct of C. F. Grand, Judge and Magistrate of the city of Patna: see under (67).

(17) Benjamin Grindall—married on September 7, 1785, one of the daughters of Thomas Powney of the Madras Civil Service who was a close friend of Warren Hastings and died in Calcutta on November 10, 1782, at the age of 61. Another Miss Powney married John Rawlins of Patna on October 26, 1789: see Tomb (25).

(18) David Burges (writer 1770) was paymaster to the troops at Dinapur from 1797 to 1803 when he was appointed assay master to the mint at Benares.

(20) George Wilton: son of Joseph Wilton, R. A. the sculptor and brother of Lady Chambers (wife of the Calcutta Judge) and of John Wilton (writer 1776) who was Opium Agent at Patna from 1800 to 1812. He came out as a cadet in 1778 and after acting as aide-de-camp to Warren Hastings and Lord Cornwallis became assistant and subsequently Superintendent of the Jagirdars Institution (1801 to 1807). His wife was Margaret Simpson. He died in London on April 27, 1833, aged 72.

(25) Frances Rawlins—see note on Tomb (17). Another of her sisters, Catherine Mary, married first Henry Vansittart who died in Calcutta in 1786, and secondly, George Nesbitt Thompson, the private secretary of Warren Hastings. Her husband John Rawlins (writer 1780) went home in the Castle Eden in (1508) (Hickey IV 408).

(26) John Adie is described in the Calcutta Directory for 1804 as "indigo manufacturer, Bankipore".

(27) George Poyntz Ricketts (writer 1790) arrived in Bengal on July 28, 1791, and was Collector of Behar from 1801 to 1807. He died at Monghyr on April 29, 1815. His father, of the same name, was Governor of Barbadoes, and his mother was a daughter of William Watts and the famous "Begum Johnson". He married as his second wife Sophia Sarah Jane Peiarce on February 23, 1800.

(28) Christopher Keating (writer 1767) is the Collector of Beerbhoom mentioned in Sir William Hunter's Annals of Rural Bengal. The death of a daughter "Polly", who was married to Lieut.-Colonel Samuel Bradshaw of the 17th B. N. I. at Patna on February 19, 1801, is recorded on Tomb (30). Keating was appointed in 1795 to be senior Judge of the provincial court of appeal at Patna. Opposite the gate of what is now the District Judge's compound at Bankipore* is a house still known as Keating Sahib's Kothi, where his Muhammadan mistress lived. The lady built a mosque in the compound of the house in her old age.

(29) Samuel Rawlins was a "free merchant" at Shahabad (Arrah).

(31) Samuel Andrews, an Irishman by birth, arrived at Madras in 1791 and married Janetta Eilbracht at Pulicat in 1795. He had removed to Calcutta by 1798 and executed portraits which were used for transparencies on the occasion of a concert ball and supper offered to Lord Wellesley in May 1803 [Sir William Foster].

(35) Francis Law (writer 1793) arrived in Bengal on September 13, 1794, and was Collector of Saran from 1808 to 1811. He retired on annuity on May 1, 1828.

(36) Alexander John Colvin (writer 1805) arrived in Bengal on August 10, 1805, and was stationed at Patna as Register of the Civil Court and officiating Collector of Customs, from 1810 to 1815. He retired on annuity on January 18, 1839. His father Alexander Colvin (1756 to 1818) founded the well-known agency house of Colvin Ainslie and Cowie. There is a monument by Westmacott to his memory in St. John's Church, Calcutta.

(37) Norman MacLeod (writer 1805) arrived in Bengal on April 6, 1806, and was stationed at Patna as assistant to the Commercial Resident, and Register to the provincial court of appeal, from 1809 to 1812. He died at Dinajpore on September 6, 1825.

(38) Archibald Cockburn (writer 1794) arrived in Bengal on February 14, 1795, and was Collector of Behar from 1807, until his death. He married on August 18, 1801, when Register at Hooghly, a daughter of Henry Ramus, of the civil service, who was at the time second judge of the court of appeal at Calcutta.

(39) Wigram Money (writer 1800) arrived in Bengal on August 22, 1801 and was Collector of Behar from 1812 to 1824. Married Ann Campbell, daughter of Duncan Campbell of Inverneill B. C. S. at Nator on May 7, 1804. He retired on annuity on March 14, 1839, and died in 1857 at the age of 73. Two of his sons followed him in the Bengal Civil Service: William James Henry Money (1807—1875) B. C. S. 1827—1853 and Wigram Elliot Money (1809—1886) B. C. S. 1829—1867. His father William Money (died 1796) was a Director of the East India Company from 1789 to 1796, and his elder brother William Taylor Money (1769—1840) from 1818 to 1825: both of them were in the Company's marine service. The famous Anglo-Indian family of Battyes are descended from another of his brothers James Money (1772-1833) B. C. S. 1791—1831, whose daughter married George Wynyard Battye (1805—1888) B. C. S. 1826—1861.

(41) The name of Oswald Charters, merchant, Patna, is given in the Calcutta Directory of 1804.

(42) Francis Le Gros (writer 1781) was Collector of Mymensingh in 1795 and was appointed Commercial Resident at Patna in 1812.

* The old garden-house of the Factory Chief, occupied successively by the Commercial Resident, the Opium Agent, and the District Judge. The last occupant, with the portion of the compound to which reference is here made cut off and utilised for other buildings, was Lt.-Col. D. Coutts, I.M.S., who lived in the house until it fell in the earthquake of January the 15th, 1934.

(44) William Lambert (writer 1805) arrived in Bengal on July 6, 1806, and was Judge and Magistrate of Shahabad from 1819 to 1827. He retired on annuity on March 1, 1841.

(45) Henry William Money (writer 1803) arrived in Bengal on September 15, 1804, and was Collector of Shahabad from 1820 to 1822. Married Henrietta Shephard at Calcutta on January 26, 1815. He died at Dacca on August 4, 1825, aged 39. A brother of Wigram Money (No. 39).

(51) Richard Milbanke Tilghman (writer 1813) arrived in Bengal on September 27, 1813, and was officiating as Collector of Behar in 1822. He died on June 1, 1834, at Humeerpore, when in charge of the Bundelcund Agency.

(52) Another infant son, John Burnet, died at Patna on January 23, 1830 aged 3 years and 6 months.

(53) Capt. Samuel Swinhoe was the son of Henry Swinhoe, attorney of the Supreme Court at Fort William, and was baptized in Calcutta on December 4, 1786. He was gazetted to an infantry cadetship on the Bengal Establishment in 1805, and was adjutant to the Mirzapore Local Battalion in 1815. In 1830 he was promoted to be lieutenant colonel. His sister, Letitia, was married on October 7, 1805, to Lieutenant William Nott of the 20th Bengal N. I., afterwards Major-General Sir William Nott (d. 1845).

(55) Lieut. Col. Donat Vaughan Kerin built himself a house in the Killah at Patna, on a site to the east of the house now occupied by Rai Bahadur Radha Krishna Jalan. In 1804 he was a Captain in the 5th B. N. I. and was commanding the Invalids at Patna. He was invalided in 1809 with the rank of major in the Corps of Invalids.

(56) Philip Yorke Lindsay (writer 1809) arrived in Bengal on November 6, 1813, and was Collector of Patna from 1824 to 1826. He died at the Cape of Good Hope on December 16, 1833.

(57) John Sandford (writer 1794) arrived in Bengal on September 14, 1794, and was Judge of the provincial court of appeal at Patna from 1815 to 1826. He died at Calcutta on February 24, 1827.

(59) Dr. Richard Mowbray Martin Thomson, whose three infant children are buried here, was also the father of General Sir Mowbray Thomson (1832—1917), K.C.I.E. one of the four who escaped from Cawnpore in 1857. He was appointed assistant surgeon in 1821 and surgeon in 1832: and was for several years marine surgeon at Calcutta, where he died on March 23, 1849 at the age of 50. His marriage to Mary Prendergast took place at Calcutta on February 27, 1821. Lieut. Col. Mowbray T. Thomson, the son of General Sir Mowbray Thomson, died at Bexhill on October 8, 1931, at the age of 71.

(61) John Frederick Ellerton (writer 1812) arrived in Bengal on September 30, 1814: and officiated as Judge and Magistrate of Patna from February to November, 1827. He became Sessions Judge of Dinajpur, and died there on October 18, 1833.

(67) James Pote was head clerk and assistant in the Opium Factory at Gulzarbagh. The inscription is most difficult to read: but a reference to the baptismal registers shows that Edmund Burke Pote was born on August 21, 1846 and baptized on November 11, 1846. There is no entry with regard to the other infant. The father was probably the grandson of Edward Ephraim Pote (writer 1771) the son of Joseph Pote an Eton Bookseller, who arrived in Bengal in 1773, was Commercial Resident at Patna in 1787, and returned to Europe in 1800. A large collection of Persian manuscripts was presented by him to Eton College Library, and King's College, Cambridge, of which foundation he was a scholar. In 1792 Samuel Charters, as to whom see (16), Edward Ephraim Pote and John Fendall (afterwards Member of Council at Fort William from 1820 until his death at Calcutta in 1825) were appointed to enquire into the conduct of Mr. O. F. Grand, Judge and Magistrate of the City of Patna (see Grand's Narrative, 1911 Reprint, page 231). Edward Ephraim Pote appears to have been the father of at least eight children. Edward (b. 1777) and James (b. 1778) were baptized at Fort William on December 29, 1789: Thomas (b. 1782), Harriett (b. 1784) and Robert (b. 1785) were baptized at Dinapur on April 5, 1790: Charles and Philip were baptized at Berhampore in 1794 : and Benjamin was baptized at Bankipore on April 11, 1798. A certain Thomas Pote, local lieutenant in the 3rd Rohilla Horse, died on October 13, 1822 : Charles Pote, who was a school-mate of the poet Derozio and an artist of some note, painted portraits of Lord Metcalfe and David Hare and also the altar piece representing the Last Supper in the Armenian Church at Dacca. He lived in Calcutta in Dhurrumtollah until his appointment to be headmaster of the Pogose School at Dacca where he died in 1859. The paintings in his bungalow realized Rs. 3,000.

(3) TOMBS IN THE CATHOLIC CHURCH IN PATNA CITY.

(2) Jean Baptiste De La Fontaine.—When Michael Filose made his way to Delhi and enlisted in Rene Madec's corps in the service of the Rana of Gohad, one of his fellow officers was a Frenchman named De La Fontaine : and it was after him that the son of Filose ("Jan Batteejis") who was born as Gohad in 1773, was named Jean Baptiste La Fontaine. A certain La Fontaine, a Frenchman, was with Major Sangster at Gohad about the year 1738, and he is probably the same man. The battalion was broken up in 1782 after the defeat of the Rana of Gohad by Mahadaji Sindhia.

(11) J. J. Finch.—For an account of the Finches of Tirhut, see Minden Wilson, History of Bihar Indigo Factories, Calcutta 1908. The gold medal which is still in the possession of the family bears the inscription : "Joseph Finch, Ob Res Fortiter Gestas Apud Sholeingarh F. C., A. D. MDCCLXXXI.

(16) The D'Camera family can be traced back through the 18th, 17th and 16th centuries in the Portuguese historians. The reference to Col. W. L. Gardner recalls an interesting personality. William Linnaeus Gardner (1770-1835) was the nephew of the first Lord Gardner, a distinguished admiral and joined H. M. 89th Regiment in 1783. In 1798, being then a captain in H. M. 30th Regiment, he entered the service of Jaswant Rao Holkar and raised and commanded a brigade of infantry for him. He was next employed by Amrit Rao at Poona but came over to Lord Lake in 1804. His wife was a princess of Cambay : and his descendant who resides at Etah in the United Provinces, claims the peerage (which has been in abeyance since 1883) through Stewart William Gardner, grandson of the first baron, who married Jane Hurmozee Begum, Col. Gardner's grand-daughter (See Fanny Parks' Wanderings of a Pilgrim). The regiment of irregular cavalry which he raised in 1809, is still known as Gardner's Horse (2nd Royal Lancers).

(47) Thomas Philip Manuel subscribed verses to this tomb, which have not been printed for lack of space. He was in due course buried in the churchyard in 1867. The verses may be found at page 29, and an account of Manuel's literary work at page 33, of Father Hosten's published list of the tombs of the Catholic Church. The inscriptions, with translations of those in foreign languages may also be found in Bengal : Past and Present, Vol. IX.

(4) SABZIBAGH CEMETERY.

(15) George Frederick Houlton (writer 1828) was Collector of Patna from 1839 until his death. Nephew of Capt. Samuel Houlton (Dinapore 2. 217).

(16) Thomas Ramsay Wharton.—The inscription on the grave at Ghazipur of his wife Madelina (d. Dec. 2, 1827, aged 36) describes him as "late of the 8th or K. R. I. Hussars". He was the son of Lieut. T. Wharton and Sarah Paulina Skardon who were married at Cawnpore on August 12, 1789.

(17) David Cunliffe (1815-1875) B. C. S. 1835—1867 was the son of Gen. Sir Robert Henry Cunliffe, 4th battalion of the Bengal Army and married in 1837 a daughter of Samuel Davies (1794-1852), surgeon on the Bengal Establishment (No. 37). He was Joint Magistrate of Patna in 1842.

(20) William Henry Delamain : arrived in India as an artillery cadet in 1830, retired as a colonel in 1871 and died in 1878 at the age of 66. He was the son of Major Innis Delamain (who died at Cawnpore in 1814) and married Jane Lloyd at Calcutta in 1840. Lt. Gen. Sir Walter Sinclair Delamain (1862-1932), Adjutant-General in India 1920-1922, was the son of Col. C. H. Delamain, C. B. (1790-1870) Bombay Cavalry—a second cousin of Major Innis Delamain.

(24) Henry Douglas.—Henry Douglas came to Bengal as a writer in 1780, and spent a great part of the rest of his life in Patna. In 1781 he was appointed Registrar of the Adalat at Patna. In 1790 the administration of the criminal law was definitely taken over by the Company from the Nawab Nazim; and Francis Grand was appointed Magistrate of Patna, a charge which covered only the city and the area now included in the thanas of Bankipore and Dinapore. In 1792 Henry Douglas succeeded to this post, which except for an interval of eighteen months he held until 1816. He then became a judge of the Provincial Court of Appeal at Patna, a post which he held, with varying jurisdiction, until 1835. Buchanan tells us that he planted the trees by the Bankipore maidan, and on the road running south from it, whereby he raised for himself a noble monument.

(28) Skipwith Henry Churchill Tayler, B. C. S. 1853-1887, was the son of the famous William Tayler (d. 1892) B. C. S. 1829-1859 ("Patna" Tayler) and Charlotte daughter of John Palmer of Calcutta, the "Prince of Merchants". Married Catherine Holroyd at Calcutta on December 14, 1854.

(29) Robert Francis Hodgson, B. C. S. 1829-1858, was officiating as Superintendent of Khas Mahals,—zilla Saran—from 1838 to 1842, when he was transferred to Monghyr as Magistrate.

(30) The names of this infant suggest a connexion with a remarkable Patna resident, John Bardoe Elliot, B. C. S. 1801-1844, who lived for many years in the house facing the Bankipore maidan now occupied by the Imperial Bank of India. William Tayler writes of him as follows in his Thirty Eight Years in India (vol. I, p. 470):

"There was an old gentleman of the name of John Bardoe Elliot, a retired civilian, who had been for some years special commissioner in the province where he had amassed a large fortune and on resigning the service remained at Patna as a permanent resident, purchasing a house surrounded on all sides by a high wall."

He lived in oriental style, smoked a hooka, and was an accomplished Persian scholar, capping verses with the local poets. He died at Patna of apoplexy on August 26, 1863, aged 77. His grave has disappeared.

(32) Sir James Harington.—The eldest son of Sir John Edward Harington of the Company's service, succeeded his father as ninth baronet in 1831. He arrived in Bengal in 1807, and was appointed fourth judge of the Provincial Court at Patna in 1828. In 1833 he became civil and sessions judge of Patna and was holding that office at the time of his death. His grand-nephew Sir Richard Harington, 12th Baronet, was a puisne judge of the Calcutta High Court from 1899 to 1913.

(34) Richard Vicars Boyle (1821-1908), C. S. I. was the engineer employed on the construction of the East Indian Railway, who built the "Arrah House", and prepared it for defence in the Mutiny.

(36) Robert Birch Garrett.—Arrived in India December 11, 1829. Father of Charles Birch Garrett, B. C. S. 1858-1893.

(37) Samuel Davies (1794-1852) was appointed assistant surgeon in 1828 and promoted to surgeon in 1843. He retired in 1846 and died at Cheltenham on October 2, 1852. One of his daughters married David Cunliffe, B. C. S. (ante no. 17).

(38) Henry Swann Oldfield, B. C. S. 1816-1851 (d. May 4, 1857) was also Opium Agent for Bihar. He was the son of Christopher Oldfield (Bengal writer 1781), Judge of Murshidabad. Married at Meerut on December 28, 1827, Letitia Scott. They were the parents of two long-lived sons: Sir Richard Charles Oldfield, B. C. S. 1848-1887, Judge of the Allahabad High Court who died in 1918 at the age of 90, and the Rev. George Biscoe Oldfield, Canon of Salisbury who died on February 5, 1932 in his 92nd year. The names Maynard Eliza were those of a daughter of Sir John Hadley D'Oyly, B. C. S. sixth baronet, who married in 1805 Walter Farquhar, B. C. S. 179;—1813, Commercial Resident at Rampore Boalia.

(40) Dr. Robert Lyell.—Formerly Surgeon of the Guides (See Story of the Guides, by G. J. Younghusband, p. 48). An account of the circumstances in which Dr. Lyell met his death may be found in the Gazetteer of Patna district (page 43).

(42) William Robert Jennings : (writer 1804) : arrived in India September 1805 : held various offices at Patna from 1827 and was Collector from 1831 until his death. Baptized at Calcutta on October 13, 1786 : son of Ross Jennings, one of the commissioners of police at Calcutta in 1788 and factor to Lord Denbigh in Bengal who died at Chinsurah on August 28, 1822 at the age of 86. His mother is the subject of inscription 41.

(44) Robert Nesham Farquharson (d. 1832) B. C. S. 182?—1862, was in charge of the Patna Khas Mahals at the time of his wife's death, and subsequently Opium Agent for Behar. He was the son of William Farquharson (Bengal Writer 1776) : (His wife was evidently the god-child of Marian Greer who married Sir Charles D'Oyly, B. C. S. in 1803 and died at Calcutta in 1814.

(51) Captain Peter Jeremie was a native of Guernsey, who joined the Bengal Army as an ensign in October 1804. He was assistant to the Resident in Malwa and Rajputana from 1822 until 1826, when he was invalided and appointed assistant opium agent for Behar on a monthly salary of Rs. 500 in addition to his military pay and allowances.

(5) LATER TOMBS IN PRIVATE COMPOUNDS.

(b) John Lewis : son of Robert Lewis, an officer in the Dutch Scot. Brigade, and uncle of John Lewis (1801—1870) member of the Supreme Council at Calcutta from 1848 to 1853, who married at Calcutta on February 12, 1823 Louisa Fendall, daughter of John Fendall (B. C. S. 1779—1825) and was the progenitor of the numerous Lowises in the Indian services.

(c) Jorgen Hendrich Berner was chief of the Danish Factory at Patna. In accordance with one of the curiously perverted traditions which are so common here, the tomb has been described as that of an old pirate who used to prey on the traffic of the river, a description which would have aroused the righteous indignation of Berner, if he could have foreseen it. Perhaps the tradition has its origin in the fact that Berner, though always inclined to stand on his dignity as the local representative of the King of Denmark, was frequently involved in quarrels with the local authorities over charges of smuggling. His house is now the residence of the station master of Patna Ghat railway station.

(d) Flora Mary Campbell Macnabb.—This is the tomb regarding which Mrs. Fenton indulged in sentimental reflections when she was the guest of Lady D'Oyly after the death of her first husband. The child's father James Munro Macnabb (B. C. S. 1806—1843) was Master of the Mint at Calcutta at the time of her death. Under its surviving tamarind tree, the tomb was beautiful ; but owing to the cutting up of the compound for new houses it has been transferred to the Muharrampore cemetery.

(e) Wigram Money. See no. 39 of the Patna City Cemetery.

James Ruthven Elphinstone (writer 1790) was the third son of the eleventh Lord Elphinstone, and elder brother of the more famous Mountstuart. From 1811 to 1820 he was a judge of the provincial court of appeal at Patna ; and in 1823 he was appointed senior member of the Board of Revenue for the Central Provinces (Bihar and part of Agra). He married at Calcutta on January 2, 1823, Clementina Abbott who died on December 8, 1825. Mrs. Fenton has much to say regarding his two daughters Maria, who married at Calcutta on November 27, 1823 the Rev. William Hodge Mill (1792. 1853), Principal of the Bishop's College, Calcutta, and Charlotte Amelia who married at Patna on April 7, 1825 Francis Gouldsbury, B. C. S. (d. 1864) Elphinstone died at St. Helena on August 1, 1828.

Amelia Sarah Boilard.—The manner in which Chajjubagh came into the possession of John Alexander Boilard is mentioned in the Patna Gazetteer (page 190). The lady was buried without a coffin, reclining on a couch; and her husband left the direction in his will (1857) that he should be buried by her side in like manner, describing Chajjubagh as 'our burial place which cannot be sold'. This probably explains the old tradition, which so far as I know is without foundation, that somebody has been buried under the floor of one of the living rooms of the Chajjubagh house.

III.—Biographical notes (Dinapore).

(2) Maria Briscoe.—Horton Briscoe (1741—1802) of the Bengal Army was afterwards Commandant of the 1st Bengal European Regiment and Major-General. He was brother of Sir John Briscoe, 1st Baronet. This was his first wife, nee Miss Maria Howett, whom he married at Calcutta on 9th February, 1769. He remarried on 28th July 1774, Miss Millicent Jane Banks.

(5) J. G. "the most sincere friend and affectionate brother" is Capt. (afterwards Lieut.-Col.) John Guthrie (1749—1803) who died unmarried at Fatehgarh on October 18, 1803, of wounds received in the attack on Thateria Fort in the Jumna Doab on September 30. He accompanied the artists Thomas and William Daniell in their tour in Garhwal in 1789: and describes himself in his will as "a Peer of the Mogul Empire". It would also appear from the will that he was a cousin of Mrs. Jean Armour who may possibly be the wife of Robert Burns. He received his commission as ensign in 1773, six years before Alexander Guthrie (1751—1785).

(8) Mrs. Isabella Spens as the inscription testifies, was the sister of Colonel Norman MacLeod (1754—1801), of the 73rd Regiment, who succeeded his grandfather as 20th Chief of MacLeod in 1772, and in the year following entertained Dr. Samuel Johnson and Boswell at Dunvegan Castle. He raised the 73rd as a second battalion of the 42nd (Black Watch) and in 1782 took them out to India, where they distinguished themselves on the West Coast in the campaign against Hyder Ali. In 1786 they were numbered as the 73rd in succession to (John Mackenzie) Lord MacLeod's Highland Regiment which became the 71st. They are now once more the 2nd battalion of the Black Watch. MacLeod sailed from Bombay for Calcutta in September 1785 and proceeded with the 73rd to Dinapore in June 1786. He was commanding at Cawnpore in July 1788 and returned to Europe in 1789. A large full-length portrait (96 inches by 60 inches) was painted of him by Zoffany in India and is preserved at Dunvegan. In the background are elephants and tents, and an officer in uniform receiving an Indian Lady who has just arrived in a palankeen. Behind these is the regiment drawn up on parade.

(14) Arthur Achmuty or Auchmuty, Colonel, Bengal Infantry. Born 1729/30. He entered the service as Cadet in 1760; became Ensign 18 September, 1761; Lieutenant 26 August, 1763; Captain 20 December, 1764; Major 3 September, 1768; Lt. Col. 13 September, 1779; Colonel 28 May, 1786. He was the son of Samuel Achmuty, of Brainstown, Co. Longford, and Mary his wife, eldest daughter of John King, of Charlestown Co. Roscommon. He married at Calcutta, 25 July, 1767, Miss Ursula da Cruz.—This marriage was solemnized in the Roman Catholic as well as in the English Church. He was the father of General James Achmuty or Auchmuty, Bengal Artillery (1775-1864) and of Richard Achmuty (bapt. Calcutta October 15, 1774) B.C.S. 1791—1808, whose widow married in 1824 Sir Charles Richard Blunt, 4th baronet, B. C. S. 1794—1813.

(15) Capt. (afterwards Major-Gen.) Thomas Hawkshaw (1755-1819) married at Calcutta in 1791 (as his first wife) the sister of Brigadier-Gen. Jacob Vanrenen (1762—1828) who served in India from 1781 to 1828 and was followed in the Bengal Army by eighteen descendants. There are still three Vanrenens on the retired list.

(16) Brevet Lt. Col. Richard Humfrays of the Bengal Engineers, the father of this child, died at Allahabad on April 14, 1806, at the age of 44. He had a brother-in-law, two sons and three sons-in-law in the Bengal Army. The widow (second wife) of Capt. Alexander Humfrays, his youngest son (bapt. Dinapore 1806, died at Delhi 1848), married at Simla in 1851 Col. Thomas Tudor Tucker, Superintendent of the Army Clothing depot at Fatehgarh, and was murdered at Cawnpore in July 1857: her husband was killed at Fatehgarh.

(19) Robert Bruce (1753—1796), younger son of Andrew Bruce of Grangemyre, shipmaster in Kinghorn, and Jean, younger daughter of the Rev. John Squire, minister of Forres, was admitted to the Bengal Artillery as a Country Cadet on the 21st of August 1770. He came of the ancient family of Bruce of Earlsall, and was brother of John Bruce, historiographer to the East India Company.

(23) Samuel Watson commanded the Dinapore Division from 1810. He was son of Lovegood Watson, of the 6th Foot, and Ann Pipe his wife, and brother of Colonel Jonas Watson, of H. M. 65th Infantry. He was father of William Larkins Watson of the Bengal Army, and of the wife of Thomas Morgan and of the mother of Sullivan Harrington Steer, both of the Bengal Army. He was appointed to command the 4th Battalion of Sepoys in 1787, and was posted as Colonel of the 18th N. I. in 1800, of the 11th N. I. 1801, of the 3rd N. I. from 1804 till his death. Appointed Major-General 15th April 1808; Lieut. General 4th June 1813.

(27) Major afterwards Lieut. Col. Steele Hawthorne. (1789—1853) married Elizabeth Anne Child at Calcutta in 1813, and retired in 1840.

(73) Col. Joseph Hampton. (1800—1878), 50th Bengal N. I. Married at Bareilly, 21 April 1844, Ellen, daughter of Major Hall, E. I. C. S.

(90) (93) The infant children of Teignmouth Sandys (B. C. S. 1827-1863) who lived at Bhagalpur for many years after his retirement and is mentioned by Warren Hastings D'Oyly in his Tales Retailed of Celebrities (pages 108—110). He eventually returned to England and died there in 1885. He had a number of daughters: one married Field Marshal Sir Henry Norman (d. 1914) another Sir Mortimer Durand (d. 1925), a third Sir Edward Braddon (d. 1904) and a fourth General Sir George Chesney (d. 1895).

(91) Lieut. John De Fountain (1809—1843) was the son of John De Fountain (or Das Fountain) senior merchant in the St. Helena service of the Company and was born in that island. His first wife Frances, whom he married at Saugor in 1831, was the sister of Colonel Henry Foquett (1804-1887), who commanded the 2nd Assam Light Infantry from 1847 to 1854. He had a brother Capt. Angus De Fountain (1801—1851) in the Bengal Army.

(107) Capt. (afterwards Col.) Robert Yeates Brown Bush died in London in 1885 at the age of 74, and his wife, whom he married in 1835, survived him until 1890. He was in command of the 65th Bengal Infantry when it was disarmed at Ghazipur in 1857.

Cemetery No. 2.

(1) Major-General John St. Leger was a King's Officer, of whom William Hickey (Memoirs IV. 154) writes: "On the 20th of the same month (March 1797) another famous character arrived in Bengal, Major-General John St. Leger, who had for a long period been the bosom friend and companion of the Prince of Wales. From having lived so much with his Royal Highness, he had not only suffered in his health but materially impaired his fortune, and was therefore happy to get out of the way out of the Prince's temptations by visiting Bengal upon which establishment he was placed upon His Majesty's staff with an allowance of upwards of five thousand sicca rupees a month." From the same source we learn (ibid page 170) that he was sent at the head of a force which was to assemble at Prince of Wales Island (Penang) for the purpose of undertaking operations either against Manila or the Mauritius : " his friends Colonels Wellesley and Sharbrooke, both of the 33rd Regiment, which formed part of the corps, also going with him". The expedition was countermanded by a dispatch from England : and in December 1797 Gen. St. Leger was appointed to the Dinapore command. Hickey became very intimate with him, and tells a number of stories about him. His death took place after an illness of a few hours, and was occasioned by incautious exposure to the sun.

(13) Lieut. Francis Engel was the son of J. S. Engel who had formerly been a Captain in H. M. 44th Regiment, and whose daughter as related by William Hickey (Memoirs IV. 219), was married in Calcutta in October 1799 to Edward Lloyd, clerk to Sir Henry Russell, the Judge. The elder Engel died in Calcutta on February 22, 1804, at the age of 68. According to the Calcutta Monthly Journal Lieut. Francis Engel died on Sunday, October 16, 1801 (not September as recorded on the tombstone) " between Monghyr and Patna, on his way to the Upper stations ". The 75th Regiment which was raised in 1787, is now the 1st battalion Gordon Highlanders.

(25) Lieut. (afterwards Lieut.-Col.) Powell Thomas Comyn (1780—1832) was the elder brother of Sir Robert Buckley Comyn (1792—1853), puisne judge of the Madras High Court from 1825 to 1831 and chief justice from 1831 to 1842. He married at Calcutta in 1805 the natural daughter of Lt.-Col. John de Courcy of the Bengal Army.

(46) Lieut. Edward Shippen Arnold was the eldest son of Benedict Arnold, the American General (who died in 1801 and is buried in Battersea Church) by his second wife Margaret daughter of Edward Shippen, chief judge of Pennsylvania : and was born at Philadelphia in 1780. Both he and his younger brother, Lieut.-Col. George Arnold (1787—1828) of the 2nd Light Cavalry, were granted a pension of £100 a year in 1793 in recognition of their father's services (Hodson I, 52).

(53) Peter McAlpin Grant (1792—1815), 14th Bengal N. I. Born at Rotheimurchus (co. Inverness), son of Captain William Grant, 42nd Highlanders, and Jenny Gordon. The Grants of Rotheimurchus have been strongly represented in the civil service in Bengal since the time of Sir John Peter Grant I. judge of the Supreme Court at Calcutta from 1833 to 1848. Major-Gen. (afterwards Lieut.-Gen.) Samuel Need of Fountain Dale, Notts, Colonel of the 9th Lancers, whose name appears on the inscription, married in 1815 Annie Grant, the only daughter of Capt. William Grant. See Lady Strachey's Diary of a Highland Lady.

(57) Capt. John Maclean Stewart was admitted as a cadet to the Bengal Army on February 14, 1782, and was invalided on June 1, 1811. He served in the second Mahratta War, 1804-05.

(78) Lieut. (afterwards Lieut. Col.) James Auriol was the son of James Peter Auriol of the Bengal Civil Service, whose name is mentioned in the fourteenth charge against Warren Hastings (for appointing him " agent for the purchase of supplies for the presidency of Madras with a commission of 30 per cent "), and who took with him to the Cape in 1784 a letter of thanks to the Dutch Governor for his efforts to rescue the survivors of the wreck of the Grosvenor. Zoffany painted a large group of the Auriol family which is described in Dr. G. C. Williamson's book (pages 189-190). James Auriol's sisters married Thomas Dashwood, B.C.S., and John Prinsep : and he had two brothers, Charles and John. All seven are in the picture. Clarissa Auriol, who died in 1819 (no. 85) was his first wife. He was invalided in 1828 and died on September 1833 at Chunar, where he was in command of the European Pensioners.

(104) Lieut. Col. (afterwards Lieut. Gen. Sir) Thomas Whitehead (1777—1851) arrived in India on the Lascelles in February 1795, and at the time (1820) of this child's death, was commanding the 9th Bengal Infantry. He commanded the 4th Infantry Brigade at the siege and capture of Bhurt-pore (1826) and was colonel of the 2nd Bengal European Fusiliers from 1837 until his death in 1851. C. B. 1827, K. C. B. 1838. Two other daughters married distinguished Bengal officers : Major-General Sir George Hall MacGregor K. C. B. (1810-1833), A. G. G. and brigadier with the Nepal contingent at the capture of Lucknow in 1857, and Major-General Sir Andrew Scott Waugh (1810—1878), Surveyor-General of India from 1843 to 1861,

(130) Lieut.-Col. Paris Bradshaw, born in Ireland 1764, joined the East India Company's service as cadet 12th November 1781. He married in 1805 Charlotte Maria, eldest daughter of Andrew Wilson Hearsey (1752-1798) (Lieut.-Col. Bengal Native Infantry), and sister of Sir John Bennet Hearsey (1793-1865) (Lieut.-General, K. C. B., Bengal Cavalry). His wife died at Folkestone, 30 August 1848, aged 61. Paris Bradshaw was Political Agent on the Saran frontier during the Nepal War of 1814-16; and before and after that he was Assistant Resident at Lucknow. In 1821 he was appointed Resident at Lucknow; but he did not live to reach that place. A rumour was current at that time that he had been poisoned by the administration of diamond dust at the instigation of the King of Oudh, whom he was supposed to have offended by the refusal of a gift. (See Notes and Queries, 8 Series, VIII, 348; and The Harseys, by Col. Pearse, pages 217-220).

(133) Thomas William Hessing, second son of Colonel John William Hessing (1739-1803), a native of Utrecht, who came out to Ceylon in the service of the Dutch East India Company in 1752. After returning to Holland the elder Hessing came out to India in 1763 and entered the Nizam's service. In 1781 he entered Scindia's army in which he served with distinction till his death at Agra, 21, July 1803, being then commandant of the Fort and City of Agra. His tomb in the Lashkarpur cemetery is an imitation of the Taj in red sandstone. He married Anne, sister of Major Louis Derridon of the Maratha service; by whom he had issue in addition to Thomas William, a daughter Magdalene, who married Colonel John Robert Sutherland of Scindia's service, and a son George William Hessing, who became a colonel in Scindia's service. George William, who died at Calcutta in 1826 is buried in the South Park Street Cemetery.

(148) Major-General Sir William Toone, (1749-1822) the brother of Col. Sweny Toone (1745-1835) first commandant of the Governor-General's Bodyguard and Director of the East India Company from 1798 to 1831, was born at Finglas, near Dublin. He sailed for India on the Bellmont in April of 1780, and was admitted to the Bengal Army on March 6, 1781. In 1805 he was posted to the command of the Bhagalpur Hill Rangers and was commandant at Buxar from 1806 to 1819 and regulating officer of Invalid Tannah Establishments in Shahabad in addition. At the age of 71 (1820) he was appointed to the command of the Dinapore division: and he was also Colonel of the 7th and 8th Light Cavalry at the time of his death. He received the C. B. in 1815 and the K. C. B. in 1819. His first wife Ann (Hill) whom he married in 1776 and his daughter Ann, who was married to Capt. Robert George Sterling of the 7th Cavalry died at Buxar in 1811, the latter on April 7, and the former on August 10.

(153) Capt. (afterwards Major-General) Forster Walker (1781-1843) arrived in India in 1802 and died of cholera at Calcutta on January 19, 1843, when commanding at Fort William. He married Lydia Sophia Pottle at St. John's Church, Calcutta on March 29, 1821. His elder brother Major-General George Warren Walker (1778-1841) also died of cholera, at St. Thomas' Mount, Madras, on December 4, 1841. Their father was a Yorkshire clergyman who had a family of eighteen children: and their mother Isabella (Warren), who was a daughter of Thomas Gregory Warren and Martha (Forster) a relative of John Forster, Governor of Fort William 1745-46, was baptized at Calcutta on November 1, 1740.

(167) The "Memoirs of the Extraordinary Military Career" of John Shipp are well known. He enlisted at the age of thirteen in H. M. 22nd Regiment in 1797 and went to India where he served in the third Mahratta war before Bharatpore in 1805. He won a commission in the 76th, the famous "Hindoostan Regiment", for bravery in the field, but sold out in 1808 to pay his debts. In January 1809 he applied for a cadetship in the Company's service, and his name appears in the East India Register for August 15, 1809, among the infantry cadets for Bengal; but he does not seem to have taken up the appointment. Re-enlisting in the 24th Light Dragoons, he returned to India and in 1815 was again gazetted to a commission—on this occasion in the 87th Regiment. In 1824 he was discharged from the service by court-martial, received a pension of fifty pounds a year from the East India Company in 1826, and became Master of the Workhouse at Liverpool where he died in 1834. His second son John Shipp was drowned in the Hoogly near Melancholy (Miankhal) Point on July 8, 1842.

(181) Lieutenant-Colonel Richard Willoughby (1748-1825) was appointed to an infantry cadetship on April 18, 1781 and was invalided on January 25, 1808. He was Regulating officer of Invalid Tannah Establishments at Chittagong from 1805 to 1808, and commandant of Native Invalids at Patna from 1808 until his death. Of a junior branch of the family of Baron Middleton and related to several Willoughbys, past and present in the Indian Army.

(189) Capt. Edward Stafford was a brevet-major at the time of his death. He was the son of Lieut-Gen. Hugh Stafford (1752-1819) colonel of the 21st Bengal Infantry, who commanded at Cawnpore from 1811 to 1814 and died at Calcutta on January 13, 1819; by his first wife (who died at Buxar in 1803 at the age of 41). A sister of his married at Cawnpore in 1814 Lieut. (afterwards Lieut-Gen.) James Caulfield (1783-1852) of the Bengal Cavalry, A. G. G. at Murshidabad 1836, Resident at Lucknow 1839-41, and director of the East India Company from 1848 until his death in 1852.

(193) Thomas Wheeler Broadbent, (1778-1826), Major 22nd Bengal N. I., was D. A. A. G., at Dinapore from the 28th of January 1825 till his death.

(212) Surgeon Archibald Cocke (1786-1827) was appointed assistant surgeon on the Bengal Establishment in 1808 and surgeon in 1823. He served in the third Mahratta or Pindari War, 1817-1818. (Crawfords Roll of the Indian Medical Service : B. 635.)

(214) Capt. (afterwards Lt.-Col.) Francis John Grant was born at Waterford in 1787, and arrived in 1806. He commanded Raja Gambhir Singh's Manipur levy from 1825 to 1835, and died at Nowgong on August 21, 1843. His wife was the widow of Joseph Sirrell, attorney's clerk, of Calcutta. (Married 1807).

(217) Capt. Samuel Houlton (1787-1827) was a son of Capt. Joseph Houlton of Farley Castle, Somerset. Served in the third Mahratta War and the first Burma War. Uncle of G. F. Houlton, B.C.S., (Sabzilagh 15).

(261) Capt. Alexander Campbell Beatson (1799-1832) was the nephew of Major-General Alexander Beatson, Governor of St. Helena, and brother of Major General William Ferguson Beatson (1804-1872) who served with the British legion in Spain in 1835-1836, organized the Bashibazouks in the Crimean War, and raised two regiments of Beatson's Horse during the Mutiny.

(292) Lieut. Frederick Granville Nicolay (1805-1833) arrived in India in 1824 and served with the 36th Bengal Infantry at the siege and capture of Bhurtpore, exchanging into the Bengal European Regiment in 1826. He married at Agra in 1830 the widow of C. Blackburn. The family is still represented in the Indian Army.

(315) Napier Louisa Mackenzie, the mother of the infant here buried was the youngest daughter of Major-General Francis James Thomas Johnston, C. B., (1776-1844) and Sally Rider, daughter of William Hickey's friend Jacob Rider, whom he married at Ghazipur in 1808. Her father and his brother Sir Alexander Johnston, Chief Justice of Ceylon, were the sons of Samuel Johnston (Madras writer 1781-1790) and Hester Napier, daughter of the 5th Lord Napier who took the casket containing the Heart of Montrose to India with her and lost and recovered it there. Lieut—(afterwards Brevet-Col.) James Mackenzie (1804-1859) was the son of a Lord Provost of Edinburgh and commanded the troops at Ferozepore from October 1857 till April 1859 : he was on sick leave at Simla when he died on August 15, 1859. He married Miss Johnston in 1830 at Nasirabad (where her father was in temporary command of the Rajputana Field Force),

(317) John Havell, "provisioner", of Deegah Farm. Emma Roberts gives a glowing account of the farm in her Scenes and Characteristics of Hindustan (2nd Edition, 1837 : Vol. I, pages 147-150) :

A description of Patna would be incomplete unless some mention should be made of Deegah Farm, the extensive establishment of Mr. Havell, who conducts his business upon a scale of magnificence which is unequalled throughout India. There is a class of Europeans settled at the principal station who style themselves "provisioners", and of these Mr. Havell is the head. His large and beautifully kept farmyards are stored with all sorts of domestic animals, and his pigs in particular are tamed : they are of Chinese and English breed.....His warehouses are kept in the nicest order and exhibit a multifarious variety of articles properly classed and arranged. Jewellery and millinery, china, glass, hardware, European bird-cages and bird-seed, saddlery, ornamental furniture, foreign fruits, jams, jellies, and preserves, with an endless etcetera of good things for the table. He deals also in carriages and horses, wines, beer and spirits. His boats go down to the Sandheads to catch the mango and hilsa fish, which after being properly cured, are despatched to every part of India : his humps, his chutney and his sauces form a portion of the exports from Calcutta to London : and hams, bacon and hung beef, prepared at his farm are highly esteemed even by those who are apt to fancy that nothing of the kind can be excellent which does not come from England. The gardens of Deegah are most beautifully planted and laid out.....the mallees are under the superintendence of Dutch and Chinese gardeners. Mr. Havell resides in a very handsome house upon his farm, and the strand below is a favourite halting place for budgerows proceeding up or down the river.....Pleasant are the recollections of Deegah, with its talking birds in cages, its groups of camels, and its English flower-beds.....During a great part of the year, there are a thousand persons employed in the different departments of the concern.

(424) Margaret Gowan, wife of Lieut.-General George Edward Gowan, C. B., A. D. C., Col., Comdt., Bengal Artillery (1788-1865), a most distinguished officer. This was his first wife (Margaret Bain) whom he married 19 June 1820. He married again in 1842.

(495) Major Patrick Craigie deserves to be remembered for two very different reasons. In the first place, he was the stepfather of the notorious "Lola Montez" (Marie Dolores Eliza Rosanna Gilbert), whose mother, a lady of Spanish descent, he married at Dacca in 1829, she being then the widow of Ensign Edward Gilbert of H. M. 44th Regiment. Secondly, he is said to have been the inventor of "Craigie toast", a savoury compounded of tomatoes, eggs, worcester sauce, and other ingredients. He received his first commission in 1818 as ensign in the 2/19th Bengal Infantry (renumbered as the 39th in 1824) and was appointed Deputy Adjutant-General of the Army, with the official rank of Major, in 1837. (Hodson I. 406).

There is a reference to Lola Montez, who married Lieut. (afterwards Lieut. Col.) Thomas James (1807-1871) on July 23, 1837 and was divorced by him on December 15, 1842, in one of Emily Eden's letters Up the Country (Simla, September 8, 1839). She is there described as "a merry unaffected girl" of seventeen, "undoubtedly pretty", and married to a man fifteen years older than herself.

(552) Major-General George Cooper (1780-1847), Colonel of the 34th Bengal N. I., served in the first Burma War 1824-5 ; and commanded the Dinapore Division from the 30th of September 1845 till his death.

(652) Major (afterwards Brevet-Colonel) Henry Cotton arrived in India on November 17, 1825, and died at Dehra Dun on November 28, 1857, at the age of 49. He was commanding at Agra when the Mutiny broke out in May 1857. From 1843 to 1856 he was Deputy Judge Advocate General.

(659) Superintending Surgeon John Symes Toke joined the Bengal Medical Service as assistant surgeon in 1820, and had been promoted to the rank of Superintending Surgeon on March 1, 1854, a few months before his death. He held a medal with two clasps for the battles of Mudki, Aliwal and Sobraon, and another medal for the battles of Chilianwala and Gujrat.

(660) Colonel William Henry Wake (1788-1854) was captured by the French on July 3, 1810 when on his way out to India in the Ceylon Indiaman, and was wounded in the engagement. He served in Java 1812-1816, in the Mahratta War 1817-1818, and in the first Sikh War receiving the medal for the battle of Ferozshahr. At the time of his death he was in command of the 44th Bengal Infantry. His widow (married at Calcutta in 1823 and died in 1856) was a daughter of John Bagshaw, M. P.

(674) Captain Charles Dunbar was despatched by steamer from Dinapore on July 29, 1857, with 343 European soldiers of H. M 10th and 37th Regiments and 70 Sikhs, to the relief of the small body of civilians and railway engineers who, with the help of 50 Sikhs of Rattray's Police Battalion, were defending themselves in a fortified bungalow at Arrah against the attacks of three mutinous sepoy regiments. The expedition was mismanaged from the start: and the relieving force was compelled to retreat the next day after having been caught in an ambushade. Capt. Dunbar was the first to fall, mortally wounded. There were many other casualties: and eventually only 50 men and three officers returned unwounded. Two volunteers, members of the Civil Service—William Fraser McDonell (1829-1894) afterwards a judge of the High Court at Calcutta, and Ross Lewis Mangles (1833-1905), son of the Chairman of the Court of Directors for that year—received the Victoria Cross for heroic conduct during the retreat.

(675) Ensign Henry Jones Erskine was killed at the same time as Capt. Dunbar. Mr. Charles Kelly of the 10th Regiment who accompanied both expeditions, and wrote an account of them, died in Ireland in October 1921 at the age of 84.
